Cada software se publica con un tipo de licencia que se puede encontrar en las páginas del programa, así como en las páginas de búsqueda o de categorías. Estos son los tipos de licencia más comunes:Los programas gratuitos se pueden descargar de forma gratuita y sin limitaciones de tiempo. Los productos freeware se pueden utilizar de forma gratuita tanto para uso personal como profesional (uso comercial).Código AbiertoEl software de código abierto es un software con código fuente que cualquiera puede inspeccionar, modificar o mejorar. Los programas publicados bajo esta licencia se pueden utilizar sin costo para fines personales y comerciales. Existen muchas licencias de código abierto diferentes, pero todas deben cumplir con la definición de código abierto; en resumen: el software se puede usar, modificar y compartir libremente.Libre para JugarEsta licencia se usa comúnmente para videojuegos y permite a los usuarios descargar y jugar gratis. Básicamente, un producto se ofrece Free to Play (Freemium) y el usuario puede decidir si quiere pagar el dinero (Premium) por características adicionales, servicios, bienes virtuales o físicos que amplían la funcionalidad del juego. En algunos casos, se pueden mostrar anuncios a los usuarios.DemoLos programas de demostración tienen una funcionalidad limitada de forma gratuita, pero cobran por un conjunto avanzado de funciones o por la eliminación de anuncios de las interfaces del programa. En algunos casos, toda la funcionalidad está desactivada hasta que se compra la licencia. Las demostraciones generalmente no tienen un límite de tiempo (como el software de prueba), pero la funcionalidad es limitada.De PruebaEl software de prueba permite al usuario evaluar el software durante un periodo de tiempo limitado. Después de ese periodo de prueba (generalmente de 15 a 90 días), el usuario puede decidir si compra el software o no. Aunque la mayoría de los productos de software de prueba tienen un límite de tiempo, algunos también tienen limitaciones de funciones.De PagoPor lo general, el software o los juegos comerciales se producen para la venta o para fines comerciales.
